ANNEXATION BILL IS LAW

The Anderson Measure for Extension of City Limits Has Passed the Senate.

THE INSURANCE BILL IS DEAD

The Measure Passed by House Last Session Fails This Time. A Week Left.

The Senate yesterday passed the House bill providing the method and conditions of the extension of the corporate limits of cities and towns, which has been hanging on for two sessions. The bill was the Anon for two sessions. The bill was the Aliderson bill, with a few immaterial amendaments, tacked on by the House. It was first passed by that body, and now will go back to it for concurrence in the Senate amendments. There is no doubt that the amendments will be agreed to or that a conficence report will be framed and accepted in the event of a failure to agree. The House having already declared for the bill and realizing the necessity of soine law out this subject before adjournment, will in all probability agree, to the amendments without delay.

The House voted down the bill to create a bureau of insurance and banking, thus putting an end to the measure which has occupied considerable attention this and last session. The bill passed the House in the recent Assembly, but the Senate refused to pass it. There was serious question as to the constitutionality of the bill as drawn.

The Governor sent to the Senate for confirmation a number of appointments of members of boards of the public institutions.

Promptly at 12 o'clock the gavel of he Lieutenant-Governor fell, and the flev. John Moncure led in prayer. The arry attendance of senators was better

Rev. John Moncure led in prayer. The early nitendance of senators was better than on the day previous, showing that as the legislative session wares the law-makers are most anxious to do business and wind up with a good record.

A resolution reported from the House, requesting Virginia representatives in Congress to vote for any proper measures that may come up in that body giving national aid to the improvement of the country roads, was readily agreed to.

Mr. Sadler, of Powhatan, made an effort to call up out of its order and pass, under a suspension of the rules. Senate bill No. 255, but he was opposed, and the effort failed. The bill is a duplicate, with slight amendment, of a bill that has alrendy failed in the House. Its object its give the Commissioner of Labor authority to go into factories and shops in search of information, submitting employers to examination and cross-questioning, to ascertain if the laws regarding child labor, etc., are being violated. Mr. Barksdale, of Hallfax, opposed a suspension of the rules, busing his objection principally to the absence of Mr. Garrett, of Henry county, who, he sald, opposed the bill, and, for certain reasons, should be heard. Mr. Barksdale took occasion to declare his opposition to some of the demands of the labor organizations. The Senate refused to suspend the rules, and the bill went over.

Afternoon Session.

The chair was resumed at 3:30 o'clock, and the House proceeded to engross a large number of bills on the calendar. Many of them were uncontested, and were engrossed without debate.

The bill of Mr. Jordan, to provide for levying a license tax on fishing devices, provoked discussion. It was opposed by Dr. Smith. of Northampton, and defended by Mr. Jordan. The debate later on grew rather warm, Mr. Cardwell coming to the growing vigorous in his opposition, and being strongly supported by Mr. Rew, of Accomac.

FOR SEPARATE CARS.

Law to Street Railways. Delegate Gunn, of Norfolk, yesterday

Delegate Gunn, of Norfolk, yesterday offered a bill providing for separate cars for the races in cities, in the discretion of the city councils of said cities.

The first section of the bill provides "that the council or councils of any city in the State are authorized and empowered to require by ordinance, any electric railroad or railway company or corporation or other persons, running or operating street car lines upon the several streets of such cities (when petitioned by one hundred reputable freeholders living on or in close proximity to said street car lines) to provide separate cars or compartment cars by portable screens

The bill offered in the Senate yesterday by Mr. Opie, of Staunton, and labelled "No. 264, to lessen the damage of travel on railroads," is short, pointed and on its face looks innocent enough, but it is loaded with vast potentialities. It emlis face looks innocent enough, her it em-boaded with vast potentialities. It em-powers, or will empower, if it becomes a law, the Corporation Commission to com-pel railways in the State to double track their lines whenever in the judgment of the commission the congestion of travel makes a single track inadequate to the pushess and to that extent dangerous to business life and limb. On the face of it this bill seems to be a measure of suffi-cient radical qualities to call forth an op-position that will hardly be gotten over in these declining hours of the present session of the General Assembly.
